Category:Presidential Communications Directors of a “best value” on the Executive Accommodation front, as there are bound to be better deals around. Trying to make yourself heard on the executive floors is very challenging for the following reasons: Firstly, with the exception of the Country Club (which is very luxurious for having such a small number of guests) there are just a few dinning rooms available, so it's pretty easy to be standing behind the next table, and equally easy to slip back to your own room. There's no privacy at all, as every table has a view of the next, you'll find people stand up and make the rounds of all the tables you'

A Luxury Kitchen Designer Comes To Town Taste of Sardinia, a Sardinian-style restaurant under the direction of owner and chef Fabio Martini, opened in June in Asbury Park's Steelcraft Center, where the current kitchen is cramped. In this month's issue of Jersey Digs, we take a look at the restaurants he is planning in Toms River and East Brunswick. When Taste of Sardinia is done with its remodel and restaurant redesign, it will feature a terrace that looks out over 10th Avenue, the stately Robert Treat Hotel, and an outdoor awning that will be covered with grape vines. "That is the most important part," said Martini, "the big terrace. It will be the place we will make our guests feel that they are in Italy, that they are in Sardinia." Taste of Sardinia is a sleek, modern Italian restaurant catering to a more upscale clientele than the old bar and grill at the start of the property. On a normal night the room at the Asbury Park restaurant might be filled with groups of between 20 and 40 people, and the restaurant can seat about 100. "In all these years, I have never seen so many people in Sardinia," said Martini. Martini has frequented the authentic restaurants in Sardinia for nearly a decade and has been serving its version of regional dishes -- both the real food and the dishes that are modeled after the food cooked in the small villages of Sardinia -- for about six years. The restaurant will be open daily for lunch and dinner, but it is best to call before coming, as reservations are not necessary. The dining room's design of dark oak and red, and a long wood bar that wraps around the back of the restaurant, are similar to the design of the restaurant in Asbury Park and the one in T
