Improvising your recipe creates a truly original experience. That's what leads a pioneering Denver bar team to create their own weekly tasting menu. Up until last year, Denver's Speakeasy 8½ has served its 100-plus patrons each week with a five-course menu. The full-day, $65 tasting menu allows you to sample from their gin and tequila program, their fortified wine program, their "rotating" wine program and - in the "oldies but goodies" category - their potent 1949 Moscow Mule. They update their menu every five weeks, so it's a relatively new experience for patrons who may not have been acquainted with the speakeasy before. The new dining format leaves many patrons first time visit wondering "how am I supposed to order?"
