For a non-quadratic complex polynomial $P(z)=a+bz+cz^2+dz^3$ with a,b,c,d in \mathbb{C} , how to show that there exists an automorphism T on the Riemann sphere such that $T(P(z))=w$ has a closed curve on \mathbb{C} which is not the image of a circle under a Möbius transformation? A: The set of all quadratic polynomials without real roots is open and dense in the space of all complex polynomials. It's not known whether the set of all cubic polynomials without real roots is, but I would bet it is. By the way, $P(z)=az^2+bz^3+cz^4+dz^5$ has 3 real roots (or you can count them explicitly, e.g., use Vieta's formulas). Edit: it turns out that the set of all cubic polynomials without real roots is not open (Example A). Also, the set of all real cubic polynomials without real roots has codimension 1 , and therefore it's non-smooth. Semiconductor devices are commonly found in modern electronic products. Semiconductor devices vary in the number and density of electrical components. Discrete semiconductor devices generally contain one type of electrical component, e.g., light emitting diode (LED), small signal transistor, resistor, capacitor, inductor, and power metal
