During his 38 years of public service, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom and the U.S. Congressional Gold Medal. He was inducted into the U.S. Army's Hall of Fame (1991), and the Alabama Hall of Fame (1999). In 1996, Alabama renamed the Hale County Courthouse in Enterprise as the "Cotulla Courthouse" in honor of Lt. Col. Paul Doran Hanes, who assisted the 82nd Airborne Division in Operation Market Garden during the Battle of the Bulge in 1945. In the early 2000s, Enterprise became the first city in the United States to elect a Military Officer as mayor, when Leroy Bailey (1994-1996) and Joseph E. "Joe" C. Wade (2000-2002) were elected mayor. In 1985, Floyd Cheek, a student at Fort Rucker, was involved in the recovery of six World War II-era self-propelled howitzers from a New Jersey swamp. Cheek, who was studying to become an aircraft mechanic, was told by his instructor that he should focus on studies and forget about guns; however, he continued his studies and became a government weapons inspector. While he was working at Fort Rucker, a photographer friend of Cheek's, Bill Bolling, took pictures of the weapons. These photos were developed and Cheek was able to identify the weapons as coming from the 82nd Airborne Division. Eventually, Cheek was able to identify 8 of the howitzers as coming from the 82nd Airborne Division, and as a result, the U.S. Army Air Corps was able to identify all 8 howitzers as having been recovered. Data on the association between vitamin D intake and prostate cancer risk were analyzed. MEDLINE, Embase, and Web of Science databases were searched for observational studies on the association between vitamin D intake and prostate cancer. Random-effects models were used to calculate the pooled relative risks (RRs) and 95% confidence intervals (CIs). Seventeen eligible studies, including 25,769 cases, were included. A decreased risk of prostate cancer was significantly observed among people consuming the highest vitamin D intake (RR = 0.89, 95% CI: 0.83, 0.96). Significant results were observed among North America (RR = 0.80, 95% CI: 0.67, 0.95), Europe (RR = 0.83, 95% CI: 0.71, 0.97), and high-quality studies (RR = 0.82, 95% CI: 0.70, 0.96). Sensitivity analysis yielded no substantial change in overall pooled estimates. Publication bias was not found. High-quality studies suggested a decreased risk of prostate cancer. North America and Europe might benefit from a modest reduction in prostate cancer risk associated with the high intake of vitamin D.L-DOPA synthesis and metabolism in a rat central nervous system cell line. Two rat central nervous system (CNS) cell lines, 6-7B and 38-13, which are predominantly dopamine (DA)-containing neurones, were established from cell suspension cultures of the ventral mesencephalon. The cells were shown to synthesize and release, by tritiated L-DOPA, L-DOPA-like activity whose identity was confirmed by separation and quantitation of the isotopic products by high pressure liquid chromatography with electrochemical detection. Unlike 6-7B cells, 38-13 cells exhibited a markedly reduced ability to synthesize L-DOPA from 3,4-dihydroxyphenylalanine (DOPA) and even the non-physiological precursor, 6-dopa. The decrease in synthesis was accompanied by decreased incorporation of L-DOPA into the cells as shown by incubation of the cells with [3H]DOPA. The synthesis and release of [3H]DA by 6-

Here's the story that included this work: I was updating a book on the plugin "Utopia" when Sony came out with an audio plug in called "Sound Forge". Now, while I had that, it was always a pain to use it and really, what's wrong with FL Studio (which actually is also from Sony)? So, let's tell the story. Back in 2007 (when everything was monolithic) I had a previous version of FL Studio and it had those little guitar staves inside the wave form window where you could highlight the notes to play. I learned some of the guitar chords and decided to use them in some songs. So, I had this nice plug-in that I used to hit F5 (kits that doesn't have a DAW) and it would read what I'd played and start playing that. It took some work but I was really making things easier for myself. So, I was watching a music video (to The Killers) and they had those guitars that went really fast and I had a bit of an orgasm. It was a little too much. Now, it was just after I got a new laptop, it couldn't handle FL Studio and I had to record from my good old P3. So, here's where I came in. I was watching a video on doing a DIY drum kit and there was a guy using Sound Forge and he has this most awesome sounding drum kit. I was thinking, "What is this? I want it." So, I google it up and I came across this. I downloaded it. But, I didn't want to use it. What's wrong with FL Studio? I mean, it's free, so what's the problem? So, I tried it and while the guitar track was way too much, I started to like some of the song structure and I had some nice recordings. I emailed some friends who were into music and they told me about acid house music and how it started and all. I wanted to make an acid house track. I really liked how it was done in the video. So, I was writing the lyrics and I was thinking "Why is it so hard?". "I want to do this easily" I thought. So, I did. It was a learning process, but I was really making progress. So, I went to studio number 2 and I still didn't have the plugin so, I
